kate spade

While growing up in Kansas City, Missouri, Katherine Noel Brosnahan, now Kate Spade, was both the epitome and antithesis of the all-American girl. Her fresh sense of style and singular personality reflect a keen sense of wit, propriety, and a no-nonsense approach to life. After college in 1986, Kate took a job at Mademoiselle Magazine, leaving with the title of senior fashion editor/head of accessories. While working at the magazine, Kate realized that the market lacked stylish, practical handbags and so innocently began designing her own. She put together some sketches, investigated production costs, and created a line of classically shaped bags in interesting colors and fabrics. With fingers crossed, Kate and her partner-husband, Andy Spade, launched kate spade in 1993. In 1996, the Council of Fashion Designers of America (CFDA) awarded her America's New Fashion Talent in Accessories. Kate was honored again by the CFDA in 1998, as Best Accessory Designer of the Year. In 1999, Kate's handbags were exhibited at the Cooper Hewitt Museum for the first National Design Triennial, celebrating American design excellence.

kate spade Barbie® Doll

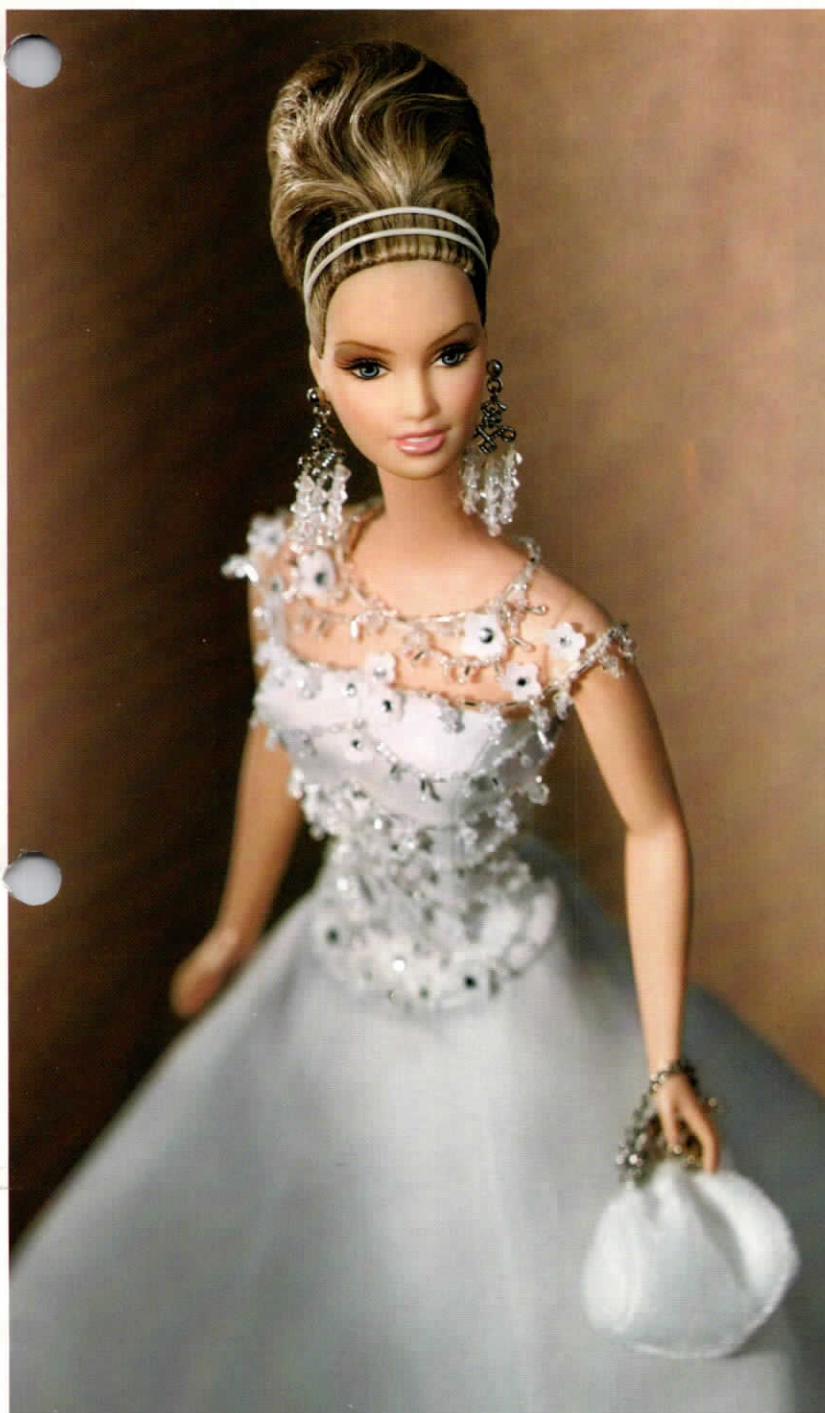

Limited Edition

Barbie® doll is dressed in an outfit that reflects Kate's personal style. The doll wears a floral print coat, belted at the waist. Beneath the coat is an ivory knit sweater and green shantung cigarette pants. A faux wicker handbag with golden detail is reminiscent of Kate's handbag designs, specifically the "Venice Basket". Barbie® also carries a "canvas" tote trimmed with faux green leather. The dog perched at the edge of the bag is modeled after Kate's friendly and loyal dog. Barbie® wears many striking accessories including bold beaded necklace and earring set with faux turquoise accents, oversized sunglasses, and green high-heel sandals.
